The Bel Naramin

The desert is vast, and its creatures are unforgiving.
And the stars of the night sky are beyond count.

Long ago, before the ocean of sand,
In the deep waters that now lay beneath the desert
Orithed the living darkness
The enslaver of men

And in its lair, that den of aqueous filth, Amidst the jagged corals of the shadowy deep
It kept them in servitude
Our ancestral mothers

From where did come our salvation?
Did not the desert itself,
The vast formless mass of Na-demma Swallow the palaces of our cruel masters?

Did not the endless sands,
The shifting tides where only Orym and jinni thrive Embrace us like a lost child?

Remember then, the debt owed
And that each offering made Falls short of what was given To undeserving men.

For the desert is vast, and its creatures are unforgiving.
And the stars of the night sky are beyond count.

The Almazaya

Who created the heavens and the earth
And all creatures there upon.

All honour belongs to Umbek Al Tayif
For he is father to all, and all that is done is done in His name

All songs belongs to Umbek Al Tayif
For without Him none would have breath to sing

All life belongs to Umbek Al Tayif For in his eyes we are sheep and goats in his great herd

All wealth belongs to Umbek Al Tayif
For long before we were born he hid jewels in the mountains for us to find

All wisdom belongs to Umbek Al Tayif
For all there is to know he has created and knows fully

All beauty belongs to Umbek Al Tayif
For all beauty was first seen in his unblinking minds eye

All suffering belongs to Umbek Al Tayif For he hath made all and all belongs to him

All hope belongs to Umbek Al Tayif for without hope who would choose to suffer another day

All death belongs to Umbek Al Tayif
For the desert spares no one
And it is his creation

All mercy belongs to Umbek Al Tayif
For all that exists is his
And our lives are his to rule

All stillness belongs to Umbek Al Tayif
For each night in the desert and the oblivion between the stars is His creation

The Naemma

Like a virgin on her wedding night

Şa da I quake for you my Master

Be gentle with me, Lord of the Şands.

Like a mather does her child

Şa you chastise me, my Master

Your hand guide me firm, my Lord

Like milk flows from a camel's teat

Şa da you flow into me my master.

Drawn me in your blessings, Lord

Like the desert itself thirsts

For the mercy of rain

Şa da I pray to you, Umbek dI Tayif

The Warrior's Prayer

Desert Father, Umbek Al Tayif, my blade thirst for blood and my honour for vengeance.
Let me strike true
against the unbeliever with the force of your justice.

May I stand firmly strengthened by Your honour and fall in your name if that is Your will.
But until I must die,
may I be protected by the power of Your Name.

When arrows fall like the desert rains
be the wind at my back and may the ghost of death pass over our camp
and the houses of our beloved.
